

FIVE YEARS WEDDED.

Ward McAllister's Son's Secret Marriage Just Leaked Out.

His Bride Was Miss Janie Garmany, of Savannah.

The Pair Thought to Be Now on Their Long-Delayed Honey-moon Journey.

A young wife society in New York has a fresh and interesting subject for gossip to-day in the announcement of the clandestine marriage of Heyward Hall, McAllister, the second son of Ward McAllister, to Miss Janie Garmany, of Savannah. The marriage was performed in this city by Rev. Arthur H. Judge, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Aug. 25, 1887, and the curious part of the affair is that Ward McAllister during all these years has had no suspicion that his son was a married man.

The parents of the young lady have been kept in equal ignorance, and when the report reached them in Savannah a day or two ago they refused to credit it. The young people have never lived together as man and wife, and it is said that the only person who has known of their legal relations is Park Commissioner Albert Gallop of this city, who is young McAllister's lawyer.

Heyward McAllister is a tall, good-looking young man of about thirty-two. He lived until recently with his father at 16 West Thirty-sixth street and is secretary of a company whose office is in Beaver street. He is a member of the Union and Cabinet clubs.

Miss Garmany, whom he met for the first time in 1887 at Newport, is the daughter of the late George W. Garmany, of Savannah, a wealthy speculator, who left a considerable fortune at his death. She is said to be an attractive and accomplished young woman and a great favorite in society. She is now twenty-five years old.

The present movement is said to be the result of a recent visit of the young lady to this city, and a conference with Commissioner Gallop and her husband. She was determined to assert her right as McAllister's wife, and demanded that they should be publicly recognized at once. Where she is staying it is still in town is not known, but she has been accompanying her husband here.

The young wife society in the whole affair is intensified by the fact that young McAllister has left town and cannot be found now, and it is not known where he is, nor where he has gone, or if he is returning to some of his friends that he may be taking his delayed honeymoon trip.

In the meantime, all the gossip among the Four Hundred, for young McAllister was well known and quite popular among the elect of the finer circles, when he got his wife, and every body was wondering why the fact of his marriage should have been so long concealed so carefully and why the husband and wife have never lived together.

It is even hinted that Heyward has left town to get out of his wife's way, and is not at all anxious to meet her.

Whether the young wife society need not seem to be disposed to assist in clearing up this mystery, but, on the contrary, appears to be extremely anxious, and provoked by this unexpected domestic development.

He says that he first learned of his son's marriage from Mr. Gallop. The latter had then told him that his son's lawyers were breaking the news to him.

"Of course, Mrs. McAllister and I were very much shocked," said the chief of the Four Hundred, "when we learned of our son's wife or any of her family. I know, however, that she was aware of our opposition to the marriage and our grounds for it."

The words levelled at the young lady, but I regard it as a very foolish thing for my son to marry in his present circumstances. He is extremely fond of his wife, but I should have had him make up his mind before assuming such heavy responsibilities."

He was not quenched, but it is sufficient to say that he no longer resides with us. His home will henceforth be at his club, or wherever he chooses to make it, as he is welcome to us as our guest."

"It is my belief that the marriage was simply a pro forma marriage contract. My son has been living with us ever since he got married, and I am sure that he has no consideration with me. She might be worth millions, but I should still insist that a young man should be self-supporting before he marries."

When I heard of the marriage I insisted that he should be announced, but there had yet been no further recognition by me of the wife than that."

Despatches from Savannah this morning say that the young wife society was somewhat surprised in that case. Miss Garmany has been a great favorite in the best society of this city and has had many admirers. Her husband is a young man named Schatz, who had courted her, and was refused, attempted suicide on that account.

Mr. Heyward McAllister, as she must now be called, has two brothers, now living in New York, Dr. Jasper J. Garmany, of 40 West Thirty-third street, and Mrs. Garmany, who is connected with the English American Association Society. Both were graduated at Princeton in the class of 1875.

He is a man of 35, and just entered upon the marriage quite recently, and it was a surprise to him. His sister, and her husband, called at his house last Wednesday to tell him that he was where they were not in town.

"I do not know," Mr. McAllister, he said, "whether I have determined to make the marriage public, but why they delayed so long before they came to this conclusion."

"Our family much regrets this secret marriage, and my brother Howard, who is now the head of the family and lives at home in New Jersey, is very anxious to say about the matter in a day or two."

"Mr. and Mrs. McAllister have not been staying at home since they have been present, except that when I last saw my sister she seemed to be in the greatest spirits and talked much of the future."

At the Union Club this forenoon it was said that young Mr. McAllister was not there, nor was he seen at the meetings at Princeton.

Park Commissioner Albert Gallop, who is Mr. Heyward Hall McAllister's lawyer, was seen at his office, 60 William street, this morning, and was very busy.

"I really must decline to say anything," said he, "except that I published the marriage notice at the request of Mr. McAllister."

"I do not know where Mr. or Mrs. McAllister is staying now."

"Not to my knowledge."

"Can you assign any reason for their living apart? I really must say nothing more than I have. Please excuse me."

It was learned to-day that young McAllister, after having been at 16 Beaver street, in prominent rapid transit, had a surface cable system. He rarely visits that place, however.

The Rev. H. H. McAllister is a son-in-law of William H. Peart, a liquor dealer at 45 Broad street, but his mother, Mrs. McAllister, who had not seen her son for months, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Frank C. Garmany, a brother of the wife, is an agent of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. He said to THE EVENING:

"We quickly, permanently restored. Weakness, Nervousness, Debility, and the train of evils from overstrain or overexcess, the results of overeating, sickness, worry, & fail-ure of vital Statistics almost immediately after the ceremony, and it has been on me then since."

She then wrote and told me that the boy had been married five years. This I heard last night."

I found that the ceremony was conducted in proper legal form, and that there could be no doubt upon it. Mr. Dodge had made the usual statement that the ceremony was of vital Statistic, almost immediately after the ceremony, and it has been on me then since."

Our boy then consulted with Mr. McAllister as to the proper method of placing this affair before the public with as little trouble as possible. The excuses offered by both McAllister and myself were that his health was such as to prevent him from indulging in active remunerative work, so he might maintain a wife. He therefore could not be expected to support his wife, and that is why he counseled secrecy.

It is determined, however, that there should be no secrecy even as we used to support both of them, because the notices were sent out by McAllister's lawyer.

Mr. Garmany said his sister and Mr. McAllister had given him all the news he wanted so far as his family knew, and frequently came to New York, and McAllister always called daily to see her. The pair went out of town last night.

MAID AND CHINEE MISSING.

Grace French Said to Have Elope with a Laundryman.

The disappearance from home of Miss Grace French, nineteen years old, teacher of a class of Chinese in the Sunday-school of the Greenwood Baptist Church, at Fourth avenue and Fifteenth street, Brooklyn, has caused a sensation in the City of Churches. Couple with Miss French's strange departure is the report that Lee Tad, otherwise known as Edward Lee, one of the young woman's Chinese pupils, is also missing, and there are some people who assert that the couple have eloped.

David Welch and Julius Lehmann, of New York City, appeared for Fanning this morning in a hearing before the Governor. There were present, besides the condemned man's wife, child and father, a number of citizens of Utica, where the boyhood of Fanning was spent, including Prof. McMillan, D. Ballou, E. B. Gardner, Rev. W. Townsend and Dr. E. B. Taylor, also Seward, of the Sixth Regiment, of which Fanning was a member. Mrs. Harriet G. Ray, of Utica, to whose school both Fanning and Lawyer Lehmann once went, was also present.

Dr. Blyden read a petition signed by citizens of Utica praying for habeas corpus on the part of Gov. Flower.

Mr. Welch argued that Fanning did not have a fair and impartial trial, and that his defense on the part of counsel was narrow and weak. In the Court of Appeals the brief of Fanning's counsel is comprised but three printed pages, that of the prosecution covering eighteen printed pages.

The convicted students signed by Frederick R. House, E. Horne, Andrew H. Purdy and Charles W. Brooks, all eminent lawyers in New York, saying that although experienced trial lawyers, would never consider a capital case without the aid of associate counsel, and yet in Fanning's case a novice in criminal procedure endeavored to take him without any advice or assistance whatever.

Mr. Welch also had a petition signed by eight of the trial jurors who convicted Fanning praying for a commutation of sentence. Mr. Welles' main argument was in attacking the testimony of Albert McJulian, Fanning's bosom friend, on whom evidence principally Fanning was convicted.

Brooklyn did not play at Cleveland yesterday on account of rain. Boston defeated Pittsburgh, 5 to 2. Chicago won two games yesterday.

Games scheduled for to-day are as follows: Pittsburgh at Cleveland, St. Louis at Chicago, Louisville at Cincinnati.

HE LOVED HIS UNCLE'S WIFE.

He Levies an Execution Upon a Republican Club's Châtelain.

But Ford Testifies Against Her in a Divorce Suit.

The boy testimony was given this morning in the suit for absolute divorce brought by James Ford against Ida Ford. The plaintiff is sixty years old and the defendant twenty-one. The suit is on trial before Justice Clement in the Brooklyn City Court.

The couple were married March 1, 1891. The plaintiff's nephew, George W. Ford, Jr., is named as co-respondent. He was the first witness called. He is not yet twenty-one years old. His testimony was a practical admission of the charges.

Both sides levelled accusations. The name of the Harrison banner, which was the cause of dissension in the club recently, at the time the Executive Committee of the club voted to expel the members of the Socialist party. Several thousand copies of the speech delivered by President Harrison during his Southern tour were distributed.

John Ford, an ardent Harrison man, said nothing about cash. It is claimed, that the anti-Harrison faction in the club took down the Harrison banner. Then the club voted to expel the members of the Socialist party.

The plaintiff got it, and obtained a judgment and execution.

Unless the club settles its charter with its members, it will be dissolved.

He has been granted his divorce by Justice Clement.

HE IS THE MASKED BURGLAR.

Young House Confesses that He Robbed His Grandmother.

William C. Haase, the young man who is accused in the Tomb, awaiting trial on a charge of attempting on Tuesday to shoot William Cook, Steve Brodie's bartender, confessed to an EVENING WORLD reporter this morning, that he was the leader of the three masked burglars who robbed his grandmother at the point of a revolver at Midway, N. J., Sunday evening.

He said he was out of money and wanted to go to New York to see his girl. His grandmother has some money and determined to help him.

The plaintiff was granted his divorce by Justice Clement.

BLOODHOUNDS ON HIS TRACK.

Officers and Dogs in Pursuit of a Texas Murderer.

SHOT AT HER INSULTER.

Ducky Defense Made by a Jersey Music Teacher.

REFUSE TO THE EVENING WORLD.

Mrs. Wardle, Mrs. Wardle, a pretty Rosalie music teacher, is a heroine in the EVENING WORLD. A son of a woman of a notorious reputation, she insulted her on Fifth Avenue last night.

Miss Young struck him in the face with her parasol and tried to shoot him, but the fellow held his hand tight in her grasp, and succeeded in pulling the trigger of her pistol, however. The bullet missed her assailant, but the flash of the pistol set her dress on fire.

The case was continued to the 1st of June.

BARON FAFA COMING BACK.

The Italian Minister Expected to Arrive here on Sunday.

He Must Explain to the Grand Jury

about Mrs. Gorman's Diamond Pin.

"Smiling" Mickey Hughes, formerly a "twirler" for the Brooklyn baseball club, is paying dearly for some "dumb old times" he used to have down at Coney Island when he was drawing a good salary as a tall boxer and tooting high and wags 105 pounds.

The plaintiff was granted his divorce by Justice Clement.

HURT IN A CAVE-IN.

Three of a Gang of Laborers Sously Injured.

A sandbank at Thirty-ninth street and Ninth avenue, Brooklyn, on which a gang of laborers were at work, caved in shortly before noon today.

The Rev. H. H. McAllister is a son-in-law of William H. Peart, a liquor dealer at 45 Broad street, but his mother, Mrs. McAllister, who had not seen her son for months, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Frank C. Garmany, a brother of the wife, is an agent of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. He said to THE EVENING:

"We quickly, permanently restored. Weakness, Nervousness, Debility, and the train of evils from overstrain or overexcess, the results of overeating, sickness, worry, & failure of vital Statistics almost immediately after the ceremony, and it has been on me then since."

She then wrote and told me that the boy had been married five years. This I heard last night."

I found that the ceremony was conducted in proper legal form, and that there could be no doubt upon it. Mr. Dodge had made the usual statement that the ceremony was of vital Statistic, almost immediately after the ceremony, and it has been on me then since."

Our boy then consulted with Mr. McAllister as to the proper method of placing this affair before the public with as little trouble as possible. The excuses offered by both McAllister and myself were that his health was such as to prevent him from indulging in active remunerative work, so he might maintain a wife. He therefore could not be expected to support his wife, and that is why he counseled secrecy.

It is determined, however, that there should be no secrecy even as we used to support both of them, because the notices were sent out by McAllister's lawyer.

Mr. Garmany said his sister and Mr. McAllister had given him all the news he wanted so far as his family knew, and frequently came to New York, and McAllister always called daily to see her. The pair went out of town last night.

FANNING NOT TO DIE.

Gov. Flower Commutes His Sentence to Life Imprisonment.

Result of a Hearing in the Case at Albany This Morning.

Weal Evidence and Narrowness of Defense the Chief Claims.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ALBANY, 13.—Gov. Flower has commuted to imprisonment for life the sentence of Henry C. Fanning, who was to have been executed at Sing Sing Prison during the week commencing next Sunday.

The murder for which Fanning stands convicted took place on the night of April 18, 1891, at the corner of Ninety-sixth street and Fourth avenue, the victim being Mrs. Emily Taylor, whose throat was cut from ear to ear.

Tom O'Rourke, Bronx manager, in talking about the proposed battle last night, said he had not made much effort to get into form yet, as the reports from England have been so contradictory, varied that we do not know how to take them. They say that Johnston has started to this country, and as Johnson I am told of his trial, he will begin to work on him as he has been taking things pretty easy during the winter, and will need some hard training to get into form. He will train in Boston. I have heard a great deal about Johnston, and I regard him as a very clever man. Those who pretend to know say that Johnston is cleverer than Billie Plummer, with weight left out of the question, but I expect Dixon to hold his own as usual."

O'Rourke was told that two members of the Manhattan Yacht Club had said that they knew Johnston in England, and that he had whipped Plummer in a single round. "How much money have they got to lay on Johnston?" said O'Rourke. That was all the notice he took of the rumor.

He also says: "Pugilists business in challenging Plummer, but we have heard nothing from the latter's backers. Just as soon as we want to bring up the matter again, we are ready."

I have no fears as to Dixon's ability to get down to 113 pounds and be strong at it. A battle with either Johnston or Plummer would make very interesting fighting.

The date of the Johnston-Dixon battles has not been absolutely settled yet, as O'Rourke objects to Dixon's fighting on Saturday night.

The date of the Johnston-Dixon battles has not been absolutely settled yet, as O'Rourke objects to Dixon's fighting on Saturday night.

The date of the Johnston-Dixon battles has not been absolutely settled yet, as O'Rourke objects to Dixon's fighting on Saturday night.

The date of the Johnston-Dixon battles has not been absolutely settled yet, as O'Rourke objects to Dixon's fighting on Saturday night.

The date of the Johnston-Dixon battles has not been absolutely settled yet, as O'Rourke objects to Dixon's fighting on Saturday night.

The date of the Johnston-Dixon battles has not been absolutely settled yet, as O'Rourke objects to Dixon's fighting on Saturday night.